GOMPERS CANNOT DELIVER VOTE OF LABOR THIS FALL

William R. Fairly, Southern Labor Leader, Comes Out for Taft and Sherman.

Vice-President Duncan Says Follow Conscience.

McPHAIL SPEAKS HIS MIND

New York, Oct. 12.—Evidence continues to accumulate that Samuel Gompers is destined to fail in his effort to deliver the labor vote to Bryan and Kern. Now comes James Duncan, first vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, in which he admonishes workmen to vote on election day in accordance with their consciences. William R. Fairly, a veteran union labor leader of the south, declared that he deemed it to be his duty "to disregard the advice of President Gompers and to vote for Taft and Sherman." Norman E. McPhail, president of the Typographical union, in a letter to Willis L. Moore, utters a protest against the Gompers propaganda. Mr. Duncan's letter, written to a friend, follows:

"Duncan's Advice to Labor. Your inquiry is similar to a number of other inquiries on the same subject, and, therefore, needs the general answer.

"The labor movement of our country in as far as the political situation is concerned, is now, as heretofore, independent of parties. Those who have given the greatest thought to the subject within the ranks of organized labor have been busy from year to year, for a long time, as part of their trade unionism, teaching, or at least advising, organized workers to not be bound to any particular party, but to vote for the principles they believe were for the greatest good to the greatest number of all the people, and that if any person aspired to public office to deal with the aspirant upon his merits, and not because of his belonging or not belonging to any particular party. The intensity of recent events has caused more activity among the organized workers, in as far as political affairs are concerned, than in the past, and we may expect, as men become educated to the public needs and study the science of government, they will become still more active politically.

"The labor movement advises study of the different subjects and principles of the great political parties, and admonishes each organized worker who is a citizen and a voter (and all should qualify as fully as possible in both ways) to cast his vote on election day in strict accordance with his

Third Street Methodist.

The Sunday school of the Third Street Methodist church was reorganized yesterday, and a good attendance had. Mr. T. E. Ford, the new superintendent, took charge of the school and infused enthusiasm into the work. Mr. J. B. Mills was elected secretary and treasurer, and Miss Ruby Mayer was appointed as teacher of the boys' class. A resolution of thanks was unanimously tendered to Mr. A. J. Bamberg, the former superintendent, and his daughter, Miss Esther Bamberg. The pastor, the Rev. H. B. Terry, filled his pulpit morning and evening, and had large congregations. The Third street church has raised $1,000 for all purposes, and one-fourth has been collected so far through the efforts of the Steward's Home Mission society. The stewards of the church will hold their monthly meeting Tuesday night at 8 o'clock with J. B. Mills, 1933 South Third street.

SEN. BRADLEY IN PADUCAH LAST NIGHT

Senator W. O. Bradley, who is speaking at Mayfield this afternoon, spent last night in Paducah as guest of Postmaster Fisher. He arrived at 6 o'clock and went at once to Mr. Fisher's home.

The senator was suffering with a severe throat trouble and Dr. Frank Boyd was summoned to attend him soon after his arrival.

A banquet had been arranged in his honor at Mayor Smith's country home, but he was unable to attend on account of his illness. He was feeling some better this morning and left at 7:30 for Mayfield.

Senator Bradley Given Rousing Reception at Mayfield Where He is Speaking This Afternoon

Declares Himself True Friend of the Farmer and Will Support Legislation in His Favor.

Mayfield, Ky., Oct. 12.—Senator William O. Bradley is speaking this afternoon to a crowd of 1,000 farmers and business men who crowded into the Graves county court house eager to hear the great Republican speak.

Senator Bradley talked about night riders in the first part of his speech and made a scathing denunciation of Democratic officials who have protected and aided the members of that organization.

He complimented the people of Graves county where no trouble has occurred. The senator pledged his support and sympathy to the farmers in any lawful undertaking that would have for its purpose the securing of better prices for farm products. He renewed his pledge made after his election that he would vote and work for the repeal of the six cent tax on manufactured tobacco.

"The farmers are more prosperous now than ever before and it is to their interest that the present policies of the Republican national administration be continued by the election of William H. Taft," declared the senator as he launched into national issues.

Senator Bradley, accompanied by Frank M. Fisher, E. E. Bell and L. V. Armentrout, of Paducah, arrived at 9 o'clock and were met at the depot by a large delegation of Graves county Republicans.

Hotel Hall, where he stopped, was crowded all morning with citizens irrespective of party affiliations anxious to meet the senator, and a stream of callers kept up until the speaking began this afternoon at 1:30.

The Senator at Lebanon. Lebanon, Ky., Oct. 12.—"If you went into a store to purchase a suit of clothes, and the salesman offered you at the same price a choice between a cotton outfit that would shrink to the knees the first time you got caught in the rain and a well-made, all-wool and a yard-wide article, which would you take?" This, in substance, was one of the propositions submitted by Senator-elect William O. Bradley in espousing the cause of the Republican national candidates before an audience largely composed of Marion county farmers, which assembled in the opera house.

"Judge Taft is the genuine, all-wool, guaranteed-not-to-rip-or-tear article, and he will wear four years without showing any effects of the usage," declared the senator.

Rain Has No Terrors. Despite threatening weather, the theater was crowded to the suffocating point, and there was a goodly representation of Democrats on hand, according to the estimate of some of the leading business people of the town.

The senator was given one of the characteristic ovations which have been a feature of his visits in the state during the past week.

On all sides Republican enthusiasm is rampant, and the Fourth district may be depended upon to do itself proud on election day. The conservative element of business men and farmers here refuse to be carried away with Bryan's vagaries, and it is almost solidly in line for the Republican nominees.

For nearly two hours Senator Bradley demonstrated with convincing eloquence how Mr. Bryan fell far short of being a presidential candidate who represented the progressive spirit of the American people.

"We can't afford to risk him on his record. The American people won't take a leap in the dark. Bryan is a quack doctor. He has a remedy for

WOMEN FIGHT FOR RIGHT TO VOTE

New York, Oct. 12.—Suits of mandamus have been started against registration officials who refused to allow women to register. Lady Frances Cook is backing the fight with her millions. It is intended to appeal to the United States supreme court to determine woman's right to vote. A similar campaign will be started in every state.

every disease under the sun, but his remedies are a thousand times worse than the alleged diseases for which he prescribes.

Taft's Great Record. "In Mr. Taft the Republican party offers you a man who stands upon his record. He has an established reputation and is the greatest and best qualified nominee ever offered in any Republic of the world. When surrounded by the same environments that made Roosevelt great he will be a greater and more useful man than ever."

Taking up the subject of Mr. Bryan's agitation against the trusts, Senator Bradley declared that the Democratic nominee would start an agitation on anything if he thought it would carry him into office.

"How about that $300,000 that Hearst says Rockefeller gave you this year for your campaign, Mr. Bryan?" he thundered.

"Do you believe the Standard Oil letters were stolen or given out to destroy Joe Foraker and the Republican party? Show me where a Democrat ever introduced in congress a bill inimical to the interests of the trusts. Are you aware that the Sherman, Elkins and Hepburn measures for the regulation of corporations are Republican measures?"

These and other pertinent questions were put up to Mr. Bryan, and each of them brought a storm of applause from the interested audience.

British Trust Next? "Mr. Bryan wants to take the tariff off American goods," continued the senator. "If that was done it would simply substitute the English trust for the American trust. The idea is as ridiculous as his bank deposit guarantee plan, which is merely a punishment for conservative and level-headed bankers and a reward and encouragement for financiers of the reckless, kite-flying variety."

In telling language the senator traced the history of the Republican party since the beginning of the civil war, and dwelt upon the many benefits and blessings which have come to the country as a result of its conservative and business-like policies. Then he spent a half hour referring to his mental card index of Democratic blunders during the same period.

"The Democratic party has always been one of obstruction, a party of 'ifs' and 'cans' and 'dons,' always making promises and never carrying them out. It has been a mule hitched behind the Republican wagon, always pulling, always tugging, but eventually following docilely behind."

Out Pops Lochinvar. "All of a sudden from out of the west came Billy Bryan with a cry about a crown of thorns being pressed upon the brow of labor. Why, he's the very man who helped put the crown there and helped press it after it got there. Since that time the eminent westerner has had more ideas than a dog has fleas."

"He is like the clown in the circus who makes his appearance clad in a tramp's outfit. One by one he discards various suits of clothes until he stands in the flesh-colored tights of the harlequin rider. He's the same old Bryan, no matter how often he changes his clothes or his ideas. Do you want him as your president? It's a serious business proposition and

UNITED STATES GIVES TURKEY MORAL SUPPORT

In Balkan Affair But Won't Take Active Hand Because of Berlin Treaty.

Disapproves of Bulgaria's Independence Declaration.

MOB ATTACKS THE CONSULATE

Constantinople, Oct. 12.—United States Ambassador Leishman visited the foreign office and it is understood told Turkish officials that America disapproves of Austria's annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina and Bulgaria's declaration of independence. He promised Turkey America's moral support, but won't take hand, however, because that country did not sign the Berlin treaty.

Mob Attacks Consulate.

Budapest, Oct. 12.—A mob attacked the Austrian consulate at Antivari Montenegro and burned the building. The occupants narrowly escaped. Two Austrian warships have started toward Antivari.

English Plans for Peace.

London, Oct. 12.—England is working hard to force a plan of maintaining peace in the Balkans, which includes Austria purchasing Bosnia, and Herzegovina from Turkey. The sultan is ready to concede Bulgaria's independence if this is done. The situation is still precarious, but it is believed Russia and France will assist in carrying out the plan. It is believed a war between Serbia and Austria will be avoided unless Serbia threatens precipitate trouble.

Peace Seems Certain.

London, Oct. 12.—One of the most favorable developments of the Balkan situation is the apparent willingness of both Italy and Germany to support Great Britain in the maintenance of the integrity of the treaty of Berlin. It is already known that France is straining every effort to insure peace, and yesterday's dispatches show that Russia is bringing pressure to bear on Austria to submit the question of the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina to the proposed treaty revision conference with such success that Austria has already announced a willingness to discuss the question of compensation to the signatory powers, although insisting on her right to annex the two provinces.

The report that Austria has let it be known that she would go to war rather than submit to any dictation by the powers in the matter of Bosnia and Herzegovina is not taken seriously here. It is not believed that Austria, with the backing of Germany, would run the risk of war with Great Britain, France, Italy and Russia.

Conservative councils have prevailed in the Serbia skupstina, and unless some unforeseen incident should cause a resort to arms all danger of a clash between Austria and Serbia is past.

Thomas Hendon Dead.

Thomas Hendon, the 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hendon, died yesterday morning at 6 o'clock at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. M. N. Clark, 727 Goebel avenue. Mr. Hendon is an Illinois Central railroad conductor. The cause of his son's death was pneumonia. The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Goebel Avenue Christian church, services by the Rev. J. S. Haskins. The burial was in Oak Grove cemetery.

Mayor Appointed

Mayor James P. Smith has been appointed a representative of the state of Kentucky at the meeting of the Ohio Valley Improvement association to be held in Louisville October 22 and 23, by Governor Willson. About 100 other state delegates will be appointed.

Balloon Race

Berlin, Oct. 12.—The whereabouts of twenty-two balloons, which sailed yesterday, is not definitely known. Several were sighted in Eastern Germany, but so high their identity was unknown. It is believed many will reach Russia. The balloon conqueror burst when four thousand feet up, but the owner escaped unhurt. The balloon spread and acted as a parachute and landed safely on top of a house. It is believed the explosion resulted because the neck of the balloon was too small to permit the gas to escape when expanded in a high atmosphere yesterday, 67; lowest today, 46; balloons are still in the race.

LAMP EXPLODED

CAUSING DANGEROUS LOOKING FIRE SATURDAY NIGHT.

Mrs. Byrd's Residence on Washington Street Badly Damaged—Slight Insurance.

Every piece of fire fighting machinery except the steamer from the No. 2 station was brought out Saturday night by a fire in the boarding house of Mrs. Melissa Byrd, 320 Washington street. The fire started in the rear of the house about 7:30 o'clock by an exploding lamp, and for several minutes threatened to be a serious fire. A large two-story house is but a few feet away, and Glauber's livery stable extends nearly to the house.

Box 57 was pulled and the Central fire company responded, but a second alarm was given and company No. 3, and company No. 4 responded, while the hose wagon from station No. 12, filed in the Central station. Two lines of hose were laid and the firemen did a splendid piece of work. The Byrd home was damaged, but the flames did not catch any adjoining buildings. The house is owned by L. D. Wilcox and was damaged about $350, with $750 insurance. Part of the household goods of Mrs. Byrd was saved, but the rooms were gutted with water. The furniture is slightly covered by insurance.

Residence Damaged.

Fire company No. 4 was called to the residence of J. F. Cummings, 1027 Jackson street, this afternoon at 1:20 o'clock. The fire started in the attic and had gained good headway before the alarm was given. The roof over two rooms was burned off, but the fire ladders checked the blaze there. The loss will not amount to much.

"WALLERSTEINS" CELEBRATE FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF THEIR OPENING

Will Keep Open House Tonight to Entertain Their Friends—Music and Souvenirs.

Wallerstein Brothers are this week celebrating the fortieth anniversary of the establishment of their store. The handsome store will be open tonight for a general reception, to which every one has been cordially invited.

"Wallerstein's" is justly one of the features of Paducah. There is no one thing that means more to a town or city than enterprising retail stores, and it is a custom to judge a community by the character of such establishments. Measured by that standard Paducah takes rank as one of the best of towns, for verily it has very beautiful stores and as energetic and enterprising retail merchants as any town in the country.

"Wallerstein's" has always stood at the forefront. The house was founded in 1868, and its growth has been rapid and substantial, and today it is the peer of any clothing store to be found in any community.

The secret of the great success of the firm is its personality and the broad, liberal, enterprising policy that has obtained since its inception, forty years ago. You can go into "Wallerstein's" and find anything you can in the most completely stocked store in any city, and you will find in any city—one far in advance of the town. And "the men behind the guns" it must be pleasant for those two genial men, Messrs. Herman and Jake Wallerstein, to view their store today, and in a retrospective mood glance back through the sweep of time to one of forty years ago, and make a comparison.

Calls on People to Assemble in Every Neighborhood to take Stern and Prompt Methods to Punish Scoundrels.

Frankfort, Oct. 12.—(Special.)—In offering a reward of $500 for the capture and conviction of any night riders who killed the Walker family at Hickman, Governor Willson says this crime is the outgrowth and result of the toleration of night riders in large districts. The only salvation for the name, honor and character of Kentucky is for the people to rise in their might to save liberty, uphold laws and mercilessly put down murder, arson, intimidation and proscription wherever they dare show themselves.

He urges the people to assemble in their respective neighborhoods and take stern, prompt and effective measures to punish every cowardly scoundrel that rides the roads to intimidate and threaten his neighbors.

CUBS CAPTURE

THE SECOND GAME

From Tigers in World Baseball Series.

Donovan, Detroit Pitcher, Went to Pieces in Eighth When Chicago Made Six Runs.

TINKER GETS HOME RUN.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—After eight innings of clock work baseball "Wild Bill" Donovan, premier pitcher of the champions of the American League, weakened under the prolonged strain and the Chicago World Champions captured the second game of the present series, six to one.

Detroit's hopes, which were high after seven innings in which Chicago had made only one hit, were dashed out in the eighth. In that sensational portion of the game Donovan was hit for a home run, triple, double, and three singles. Incidentally he walked one man and allowed another to score on a wild pitch. Overall, on the contrary, was steady throughout the game, holding the "Tigers" to four hits and one run.

Nothing could have exceeded the excellence of Donovan's work up to that fatal eighth. He had the best Chicago batsmen swinging wild, and twice struck out the redoubtable Killebrew. Not until the sixth did the World's Champions connect with his curves. Then the distinction fell to Overall, who poked a short fly just beyond Downs and a moment later the side was retired on a flashing double play.

No runner on either side reached first base until the third. Then Overall passed Downs and the latter was sacrificed to second, where he went out. This was farther than Chicago went. Overall reached first because Roseman, who stopped his grounder, instead of covering the bag himself, waited for Donovan to do so, and the latter dropped his throw. But the big Chicago pitcher got no farther. Again in the sixth Overall reached the initial sack on his single, but with these two exceptions Chicago could do nothing with Donovan's delivery up to the eighth.

Then it was different. Overall's pitching was masterly. He was found for only four scattered hits, no two of which came in the same inning, and one of which was to be counted because Overall, wanting both, went after Schaefer's bunt, and, each stopping for the other to field it, it went for a hit. He issued passes twice.

Crawford and McIntyre, who hit above .300 all season, were unable to connect safely with his delivery. Each side was credited with an error, but neither of them figured in the score.

Up to the eighth the game was a pitchers' battle, and it began to look as though the second contest of last year's championship series, when the same pitchers worked, would be repeated, namely, a tie game. There was comparatively little noise. The spectators were too highly keyed by the neck and neck struggle to indulge in more cheering.

To Joe Tinker belongs the credit for breaking the spell which Donovan had held over the Chicagoans for so long. Steinfield had struck out and Hoffman had reached first because Schaefer, after beautiful one-handed pickup of his weak grounder, had thrown low. The crowd scarcely hoped for more than a single, and hardly expected that, when Tinker came to the bat. Donovan sent a fast waist-high inshoot partly over the plate. It never got all the way, for the stocky Chicago shortstop swung viciously. The ball soared high, and clear into the stand in the right field. Tinker, preceded by Hoffman, trotted around to the plate amid the cheering of the spectators. Horns were blown, bells rung, and throats strained to increase the ovation. Manager Jennings sought to persuade Umpire Klem that the hit should go for only two bases, but Klem only smiled. Such have always gone for home runs. Kling drove the first ball pitched into the overflow crowd in the left field and stopped running when he had reached second base. The onslaught had affected Donovan, but he still smiled and retired Overall on a weak grounder. He went to pieces, however, when Shreckard made a desperate steal of second and went to third on Evers' safe buff. Roseman in a moment of absent-mindedness, brought about by the general catastrophe, which had happened to Detroit's aspirations, allowed Evers to flash away from first and reach second standing up while the ball remained in the first baseman's hands. Schulte tripled to deep center, scoring Shreckard and Evers. Then, to finish matters up, Donovan threw wild pitch and Schulte trotted across the plate with Chicago's sixth and last.

What Do You Know About the Quality of a Carpet or Rug?

NINE people out of ten do not know real carpet values. They know a Velvet from an Axminster, and they can possibly tell Cotton Jute from Wool; but when it comes down to facts (which count) about Carpets and Rugs they don't know, you have got to depend on the honesty of the firm you deal with to get perfect satisfaction. It's very easy for a merchant to buy an inferior quality of Carpets that has all the appearance of the "best", and sell at a few cents cheaper and at the same time, sell it for first-class goods—but you are the loser. A few cents saved on every yard of Carpet don't amount to much and it deprives you of much satisfaction, and a new one is needed much sooner than it would have been had you only known.

Every yard of Carpet, every Rug in our house goes out with our name back of it. We buy direct from the mills, and we accept only the best to be had.

We have built a solid foundation on which we are doing the Carpet business. Twenty-two years of experience backed by our reputation is what should be your Carpet and Rug insurance.

run. Chance walked and stole second while Schmidt was musing over the ball on Detroit's sudden fall in fortune, but Steinfield flew out, retiring the side.

Detroit substituted D. Jones for O'Leary for a final try for victory, and the substitute was given his base on balls. He went to second on Crawford's out, and scored when Cobb singled to center. Roseman, however, hit into a double play and the game was over.

The attendance, due largely to the chilly weather, was only 17,760 paid admissions.

WALTER KRONE

AGAIN ASSAULTED

Lyon County Attorney Has Strenuous Time.

For Doing His Sworn Duty—Knocked Down and Beaten by Man He Prosecuted.

GRAND JURY WON'T INDICT

County Attorney Walter Krone, of Lyon county, one of the four Democratic officials in western Kentucky counties that have tried to do their duty during the night rider troubles, has again been assaulted by a man he has prosecuted in the criminal courts.

While sitting in his office at Kuttawa Saturday Mr. Krone was attacked by W. P. Hildreth, who had been convicted of running a blind tiger at Eddyville, and was knocked down, beaten and bruised.

The following account of the affair was given to The Sun by Mr. Krone:

"W. P. Hildreth, who has been running a 'blind tiger' at the Eddyville depot since August 1, came into my office about 10 o'clock Saturday morning and with a missile of some kind in his hand, I am sure a rock, and jumped on me striking me on the side of the head without giving me any warning whatever. As he came in I asked him to have a seat. I was engaged talking to a gentleman on business. He knocked me over on the floor and struck me two or three times and then ran out of my office. I had prosecuted him for running a blind tiger on several counts and had put $305 in fines on him in the quarterly court since August 1. Before he was tried he made some threats to me and told me that if I prosecuted him he would have the 'night riders' wait on me and said to me, 'You know I can do it.' I told him to 'let them come I will do my duty.'

"You will remember that on the 29th of May I was assaulted by Harvey Satterfield, at Eddyville, because he had been arrested for night riding. Hildreth came into my office three times this morning and spoke pleasantly to me before he came to assault me. Thus you can see that one has a hard time when he has to be beat up by fellows whom he is called upon under and by his official duty to prosecute.

"Yet we have a circuit judge and commonwealth's attorney who will not and have not called the attention of the grand jury to such cases. The grand jury passed the case which was properly before it at the last August term and refused to indict Satterfield for assaulting me.

"I will say even under these circumstances while I have been beat up by big stalwart fellows, and maligned by others who have violated the law, I will still do my duty."

The New Wood

Yard is Ready

For Business.

We have our portable wood sawing machine in operation and are now prepared to furnish any amount of oak stove and heating wood (good country wood). We are cutting it 12 to 16 inches long, but will cut special lengths to suit customers.

We opened a wood yard in connection with our coal business in order to furnish our men steady employment, as every man given employment at this time helps improve business conditions and hastens the return of prosperity.

Then Paducah needs a first-class wood yard, and if the people will patronize us we will guarantee them an up-to-date yard, where they can get oak stove and heating wood any time during the year. We will also have loose and bundled kindling and will be in position to furnish mixed loads—part wood and part kindling.

It is not our desire or intention to ruin or take away from any person running a wood wagon their business, but will endeavor to make their business more secure by selling them wood at our yard to fill their orders.

We have the wood to sell and will deliver it to you or you can send a wagon to our yard for it.

It is not necessary now for you to purchase a large quantity at a time, as you can buy one load at a time from us and depend on getting

RAILROAD NOTES

Beginning next Sunday the St. Louis division of the Illinois Central railroad will have a shakeup in the schedule time. The official note has not been received, and the change in schedules effecting all of the trains cannot be told yet. The train leaving Paducah for St. Louis at 12:40 o'clock will leave in the morning at 9:40 o'clock, which will be of much benefit to the traveling public.

Notice was received today by the local officials of the change in the running of the trains Nos. 103 and 104. Train No. 103 will make connections with train No. 3 of the Chicago & New Orleans railroad at Fulton and train No. 4, of the Chicago & New Orleans road, will make connections with train No. 104 at Fulton. The change will have no effect on the schedule time at the Paducah station. Trains Nos. 102 and 101 have been making the connections at Fulton for some time.

Mr. Jeff Bell, a machinist, who has been in the employ of the Santa Fe railroad at Albuquerque, N. M., has arrived in Paducah and accepted a position in the Illinois Central shops. He has many Paducah friends, who were glad to see him again.

Fireman John R. Wilkins has returned from Mayfield after a three days' visit to his parents and attending the meeting of the Baptist association. Fireman Wilkins has the Cairo run and will begin work tonight on the train that leaves at 6:15 o'clock.

Next Sunday Paducah will be overflowed with visitors from St. Louis, as an excursion will be run to Paducah. The train will leave St. Louis Saturday night at 11 o'clock and will reach Paducah at 9 o'clock Sunday morning. The train will leave on the return trip at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and will reach the Future Great about midnight. It is expected that a large crowd will make the trip.

A serious wreck was narrowly averted Saturday night about 7 o'clock when the arch on the tender of passenger train No. 822 broke. The train had made the stop at the La Center station, and was pulling out, when the arch broke and let the tender down. Had the accident occurred while the train was under full headway there is little doubt but what the passenger coaches would have been heaped into a pile. Engineer Will Burch applied the brakes and stopped the train before the passengers were given a jar. An engine was sent out from Paducah to pull the train to Cairo, and the passengers arrived there about 10 o'clock instead of 7:45 o'clock. The accident was unavoidable, and no blame is attached to any of the trainmen.

You Can Get the Clothes Reproduced Herewith at Culley's — You Can't Get Them Anywhere Else.

The Culley Clothes Shop, having been invited by The Sun, submits for their readers four of the models which will be accepted for men's wear during the fall and winter of 1908 and 1909.

The clothes reproduced were made by hand for us by Rosenwald & Weil of Chicago and New York, the wholesale custom tailors whose name stand for the best in ready service clothing. The cloths used were selected from "swatches" submitted to Mr. Culley personally by the leading American and European mills.

Such care was used in the making of these clothes that even the collar and the front are expertly hand padded. The collars are felled, the edges of every garment are turned by hand. Every shoulder pad is made of pure wool and was shaped and turned by hand for that particular garment in which it was used.

Were you to go to a merchant tailor and pay $40 to $65 for a suit or overcoat made to your measure you would not secure garments that are in any way superior to these, and it is doubtful if they would be up to the same standard of workmanship and originality in design.

Business men as well as the young men about town are the regular patrons of this shop. They have learned that the clothes generally worn by well groomed men and young men were bought from Culley's.

No matter who the man or what the position he occupies, personal appearance cannot be ignored. The man with brains wearing a hand-me-down will certainly succeed, but how much easier if he would work along the lines of least resistance by giving careful attention to the character of the clothes he wears.

The men's suits and overcoats exhibited in the Culley Clothes Shop designed for us by R. & W. are marked from $20 to $50, other grades from $10 to $18.

Quality considered, the clothes offered at these prices are more reasonable than those sold in any other store in Paducah.

As a special inducement we offer during this week a

Many a Paducah Household Will Find Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of Paducah readers.

Thomas Housman, of 1143 North Thirteenth street, Paducah, Ky., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at DuBois, Son & Co.'s drug store a few months ago, have done more for me than any other medicine I have ever taken for kidney trouble. For a time my kidneys were so bad that I was not able to work and was under the doctor's care. I finally got relief and went back to work, but I suffered most of the time from backache until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They gave me relief in a short time, and now I feel as if I could not do without them. A few doses taken now and then keep me free from pain."

3 YEAR PLEDGES REQUIRED BY ASS'N

Executive Committee of Growers Make Ruling.

Robert Glover Elected to Succeed the Late W. C. Warfield as Grader.

TOBACCO SALES LAST WEEK

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 12.—At the annual meeting of the board of directors of the Planters' Protective association, held last week at Guthrie, it was decided to require three-year pledges from the members. All the pledges in the association expire with this year's crop, and new ones will be issued at once and circulated throughout the district for signatures. As the success of the organization depends upon the amount of tobacco pledged to it, there will be no loss of time in getting the blanks out among the 40,000 members.

The directors are insisting that more attention be paid to the quality and less to the quantity of tobacco raised, and recommend the following scale: "Five acres of tobacco for the first forty acres of land owned or controlled, and two and one-half acres for each additional fifty acres or fraction thereof." At present seven and one-half acres for the first fifty acres are allowed.

Robert Glover, of Robertson county, Tenn., was elected one of the three official graders of the association, vice W. C. Warfield, of Sandersville, who died the day he was elected.

A resolution was adopted prohibiting the prizes from receiving tobacco on the stalk. This was done to induce growers to strip their own tobacco. In handling the new crop two new grades were decided upon. These will be known as "common leaf" and "low leaf." A new committee on finance was selected, composed of Dr. Joseph L. Barker, of Pembroke, Dr. M. L. Bradley, of Sandersville, Tenn., and J. T. Daughady, of Hampton, Ky.

Louisville Report.

Louisville, Oct. 12.—According to the opinion of the local tobacco men there will be an early movement of tobacco to market provided a favorable handling season develops in the near future. So far this year there have been sold on the open breaks in this market thirty-six hogheads, or two hogheads against a total of two hogheads during the same period last year. The average price this year was $11.94, against $8.50 last year. Weather conditions, however, have retarded the movement of tobacco. In fact, stripping and pricing are at a standstill. Curing is progressing slowly in consequence of the lack of moisture.

There was little of interest on the breaks this week. Sales were small, and price changes were unimportant. There were sold privately during the week 100 hogheads of burley and 281 hogheads of dark and Green rivers.

The executive committee of the Planters' Protective association closed its business at Guthrie Wednesday afternoon and adjourned.

CARNEGIE

DONATES $20,000 TO REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN FUND.

Treasurer of Campaign Committee Makes Appeal to Business Men For Contributions.

New York, Oct. 12.—The fact that Andrew Carnegie has contributed $20,000 to the campaign fund of the Republican national committee, was announced by State Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff.

Mr. Woodruff also announced that Mrs. Russell Sage had contributed $1,000 to the same fund. There have been no other large contributions from individuals. Mr. Woodruff said, but small sums are coming in from various sources.

George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the national Republican committee, when asked about the contributions, declined to discuss the matter, saying that he would publish a list of all the contributions made to the Republican committee after election.

Appeal to Business Men. An appeal for contributions to the Republican national campaign fund of $50 each from 10,000 business men was issued by Treasurer Sheldon, of the Republican national committee. The appeal reads as follows:

"The legitimate expenses of the Republican national campaign are necessarily large. Under the law, corporations may not contribute, and we therefore ask individuals to contribute more generally.

Will Prevent Comment. "Many would-be contributors are deterred from subscription lest the amount, when published, be the subject of comment as being too small, or on the other hand, too large.

"I have, therefore, determined to ask a uniform contribution of $50 from say 10,000 business men so vitally concerned in the continuance of Republican principles.

"I hope you will place yourself on this roll, and send me your check for such an official receipt will be sent you."

METROPOLIS HIGH

COMING SATURDAY

To Take Vengeance for Defeat Few Weeks Ago.

Paducah Team Loses to Marion Saturday Because They Were Out-Weighed.

GIVE MINSTREL THANKSGIVING

Working like beavers the High school football squad was out for practice this afternoon, and every man was playing like his life depended upon his part. Coach Evans was pleased at the enthusiasm and was not slow in expressing his opinion that the Marion defeat was good for the players, as it made them practice with earnestness. Metropolis High school will be played next Saturday, and this will be the game of the season. Metropolis has written that the players are ready to take vengeance for the defeat two weeks ago, and a big bunch of Illinois rooters will accompany the team.

This week will be devoted by the High school squad in perfecting the players they have, and few new ones will be taken on until the machinery of the team has been well oiled. High school had a too light line for Marion, although the players stood well together.

The third minstrel will be given by the High school boys before Thanksgiving Day, according to the preliminary plans that have been perfected. Edwin Mitchell has been chosen as manager and this year a bigger and better program is promised. The black stars will give the usual specialties with plenty of good music thrown in.

The past two years the auditorium has been overcrowded at the minstrels, and this year no decrease in attendance is looked for. This year the minstrel will be given for the benefit of the athletic association. The full program, with the date, will be announced later.

Miss Rose Flournoy, a teacher in the Franklin building, who has been ill with fever since the opening of the school term, took charge of her room today. Miss Bessie Smedley has been substitute teacher.

Marion Captures Game Saturday.

Paducah High school lost the first home football game Saturday to the Marion (Ill.) High school team by a score of 18 to 0. High school was outweighted and Scott and Mercer, two of the best and heaviest players, were out of the game. Marion had a lively bunch. Several Paducah players were playing in new position and it was one player's first real scrimmage. Instead of being discouraged the Paducah players are anxious to retrieve the honors with a grand victory over Metropolis.

Wilhelm made a pretty 25-yard run in the first half, while Hays did splendid playing in half. Coffee made a touchdown and Rayburn kicked goal, while five minutes later Rayburn carried the ball over. In the second half Marion made the third touchdown. Coach Evans believes that his men have learned a lesson in the defeat.

The Remedy That Does.

"Dr. King's New Discovery is the remedy that does the healing others promise but fail to perform," says Mrs. E. R. Pierson, of Auburn Centre, Pa. New Discovery is doing me so much good that I feel confident its continued use for a reasonable length of time will restore me to perfect health." This renowned cough and cold remedy and throat and lung healer is sold at all druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

DELIVER VOTE

conscience as to what would be the best for the whole people.

"The hue and cry sent out by a horde of the public press, that the labor vote was being bartered, is but one of the forms of political buncombe which is used for exaggeration, and to begot the public mind. The views, beliefs and inclinations of candidates for public office should in each instance be carefully scrutinized by all good citizens, and which includes all voting, organized workers, instead of simply voting for a man because he may hold certain party affiliations, and the election this year and the campaign leading up to it, as far as organized labor is concerned, will be no exception to that rule."

Fairley Endorses Duncan's Position.

Mr. Fairley emphatically endorses Mr. Duncan's attitude. In an interview he said: "To me it seems that Vice-President Duncan has stated with clearness the position that the members of the federation should take. I can see only one course to pursue myself and that is to vote for the party that will bring prosperity to the working man of this country."

There are three reasons why he could not follow Mr. Gompers into the Democratic party, Mr. Fairley explained. The first of these was that he did not believe it proper for anyone to attempt to "deliver" its vote to any political party. The second was that the bitter lesson the laboring men of this country learned, while their families suffered during the last Democratic administration is still fresh in his mind, and the third cited by the mine leader was that, as the Republican party only had given the laboring man better conditions in the past, so might improved conditions be secured only from it in the future.

"I cannot understand how Mr. Gompers—and he is an able man—can ask us to vote for the Democratic party, when it has such a record against labor in the south," continued Mr. Fairley. "Surely he cannot understand, as we do, who have been crushed under it.

"In the south, where Democracy could have helped labor if it had cared to practice what it preaches in the Denver platform, we have longer hours and lower wages, with poorer educational facilities for our children, than in any other section of the United States. I have found no one to answer this impeachment of the Democratic party."

McPhail Takes Issue With Gompers.

"The vote of organized labor, as a body, will not, should not and cannot be delivered to any party or by any man or set of men," writes Norman E. McPhail, president of the Typographical union, to Willis L. Moore, President McPhail's letter is as follows:

"Dear Mr. Moore: Your letter of September 22 has just been received and read by me, as I have today returned from a tour of some of our New England cities for our organization.

"In reply to the question you ask me, I will state that in my opinion the vote of organized labor in this country as a body will not and cannot be delivered to any one party by any one man or set of men. To allow such a thing would be suicidal to the labor movement of the country.

"Members of labor unions, as citizens, have the right and should carefully consider the platforms and promises of the different political parties, and should vote as they believe the broadest and best interests of our country lie.

"There can be no objection to this from any source and it is something which every citizen should do. To claim that any man or set of men, as has been blazoned forth in the newspapers, will deliver the vote of organized labor to any party is absurd, as it is impossible."

County Court Clerk.

The Sun is authorized to announce Hiram Smedley a candidate for re-election to the office of Clerk of the McCracken County Court subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Daily Thought.

A man has just as much religion as he can command in the time of trouble.—Andrew Fuller.

Official figures show that more than 50,000 idle freight cars were put to work in the closing fortnight of September.

What labor wants is not legal hair-splitting but the opportunity to earn self-respecting wages.

Secretary Taft is a member of the Steam Shovelers' Union. He is showing the west an illustration of high-pressure campaigning.

To restrict production, as the Democracy proposes, would be to hamper industry and penalize invention.

Republicanism says: "Plant the factory beside the farm." Bryanism says: "Have your manufacturing done in free trade countries abroad."

If his own words count for anything one of Mr. Bryan's first steps in the event of his election would be to apply for a writ of ejectment against the gold standard.

PAY FOR THE TEACHERS.

Owing to an apparent confusion in the public mind in regard to the proposed bond issue for which The Sun was partly responsible by failure to be sufficiently explicit, The Sun will explain its attitude. There is just one overwhelming issue in which The Sun right now is interested, and that is the continuance of the schools for the whole school year and the payment of teachers' salaries. There are a lot of other matters, payment of the floating debt, better equipment of the extension of the school system, but those matters have waited, and cannot be remedied this school year anyway, so we are contented to wait for them, especially the building of new schools, as we have not the money with which to run them, if we should build them.
But we fear in the discussion of the bond issue, the people are forgetting something more important even than that, the continuance of the schools and the payment of teachers.

The school board tells us there is not enough money to run the schools this year, and that money must be secured. The bond issue won't take care of that. Not a cent of that money can be expended either in paying the salaries of teachers this year or increasing their pay. It can be spent only on buildings and equipment.

So, no matter how the bond issue goes, we are still confronted with this problem of paying the teachers and keeping the schools open. Let the school board and the city officials, the patrons of the schools and all interested in them get together and solve this problem, regardless of the bond issue.

The city can well afford to give the schools a ten cent levy out of the contingent fund, which may be anticipated in January.

TO THE COLORED VOTERS.

The colored voter, who intends to vote against Taft, because Roosevelt discharged the negro troops for the Brownsville affair, should remember that those colored troops were doing just what Kentucky night riders do—shooting into defenseless homes under cover of darkness. All the soldiers were not guilty, just as all the night riders are not guilty of actual raiding; but all the soldiers knew who
the guilty ones were, and refused to join.

They were in the uniform of United States soldiers, drawing United States pay, under oath to protect the lives and property of citizens and uphold the laws, and they were caught conspiring to protect against those law comrades, who had violated them.
They proved themselves unfit for soldiers and were discharged, that is all.
Any colored man, who respects his own race, should applaud the president's act.

Will he leave the party of a president, who punished negro desperados for shooting into white homes,
and a governor, who punishes white desperados for shooting into both white and colored homes, for the party, whose very officers' hands are red with blood and grimy with the smoke of cabins and barns.

LABOR'S MAGNA CHARTA.

The more labor studies the treatment which labor has received at the hands of William H. Taft, both on and off the bench, the more evident it becomes to every fair-minded worker that Judge Taft has not only been just and impartial in dealing with the interests of workmen, but that his decisions, followed as precedents by other courts, have been of inestimable value to labor in upholding the right of railway workers to leave their employment where they see fit, irrespective of the consent of the employer. It is well known that even in England, where labor possesses more rights than in any other country of Europe, a different rule prevails, and the crew of a train quitting without giving several days' notice can be prosecuted criminally. Some American railways sought to maintain a similar rule, but Judge Taft, in the Toledo and Ann Arbor railroad case, held that the relation of employee to railway companies is one of free contract, and is not analogous to that of seamen in the maritime service who,
to a certain extent, surrender their liberty in their employment, and are punishable for desertion. The employment, therefore, in the case of railway service, was terminable by either party. The court could not compel the enforcement of personal services as against either the employer or the employed, against the will of either.

It was this decision which prompted the head of one of the railway labor organizations, a few days ago, to write to Mr. Taft that at St. Louis in a subsequent railway controversy the railway employees had found "you had laid down there the Magna Charta upon which we could depend for the protection of our rights."

Labor can always depend upon Mr.
Taft for the protection of its rights, both because he is in sympathy with labor, and because it is his nature to do right by every citizen, and to see,
as far as in his power lies, that no one is wronged.

The election of Mr. Taft to the presidency will in itself be a Magna Charta upon which every American can depend for equitable, just and generous treatment by the chosen head of the government.

Senator Beveridge on Bryan.

Mr. Bryan is an Aaron, but not a Moses; a Henry, but not a Washington; a Wendell Phillips, but not an Abraham Lincoln. He is the storm of unrest which clears the atmosphere, but not the trade winds that carry to port the freighted ships of a people's hope.

For Fishing.

A certain John Simmons had been a twenty-year abstainer, but fell from the ways of grace and worshiped the vicious god with all the fervor of a convert.

Fling the need of reparation,
he sent his boy to an adjacent hostelry for a bottle of whiskey.

"But," cried the hotel proprietor,
"who's it for?"

"For my father," said the boy.

"Nonsense. Your father is a total abstainer, and has been, to my knowledge, for longer years than you've lived."

"Well, at all events, he sent me for it."

"To let you into a secret," the boy said, ashamed to tell the truth, "he's going fishing, and he wants the cork to use for a float."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

At the pergola he paused to reconsider, finding on the bench certain vestigia that interested him deeply—a pink parasol, a contrivance of straw, lace and pink roses that seemed to be a hat and a June magazine. He jumped upon the bench where once he had sat an exile, a refugee, a person discussed in disagreeable terms by the newspapers, and studied the landscape.
Then he went on up the gradual slope of the meadow until he came to the pasture wall. It was under the trees beneath which Oscar had waited for Zinnai that he found her.

"They told me you wouldn't dare venture out for a week," she said, advancing toward him and giving him her hand.

"That was what they told me," he said, laughing, "but I escaped from my keepers."

"You will undoubtedly take cold without your hat."

"Yes; I shall undoubtedly have pneumonia from exposure to the Virginia sunshine. I take my chances."

"You may sit on the wall for three minutes; then you must go back. I cannot be responsible for the life of a wounded hero."

"Please!" He held up his hand.

"That's what I came to talk to you about."

"About being a hero? You have taken an unfair advantage. I was going to send for the latest designs in laurel wreaths tomorrow."

"She sat down beside him on the wall.
The sheep were a grayish blur against the green. A little negro boy was haphazardly there, and they scampered before him toward the farther end of the pasture. The faint and vanishing tinkle of a bell and the boy's whistle gave emphasis to the country quiet of the late afternoon. They spoke rapidly and impersonally of his adventures in the hills and of his illness.

"I didn't know, Miss Claiborne, that I was going to lose my mind that morning at the bungalow or I should have asked your brother to conduct you to the conservatory while I fainted. From what they told me I must have been a little light-headed for a day or two. If I had been in my right mind I should not have let Captain Dick mix up in my business and run the risk of getting killed in a nasty little row." "Dear old Dick! I made a mess of that whole business. I ought to have telegraphed for the Storm Sprites constable in the beginning and told him that if he wasn't careful the noble house of Schomburg would totter and fall."

"Yes, and just imagine the effect on our constable of telling him that the fate of an empire lay in his hands. It's hard enough to get a man arrested who beats his horse. But you must go back to your keepers. You haven't your hat!"

"Neither have you. You shan't outdo me in recklessness. I inspected your hat as I came through the pergola. I liked it immensely. I came near seizing it as spoil of war—the loot of the pergola!"

"There would be cause for another war. I have rarely liked any hat so much. But the baron will be after you in a moment. I can't be responsible for you."

"The baron annoys me. He has given me a lot of worry. And that's what I have come to ask you about."

"Then I should say that you oughtn't to quarrel with a dear old man like Baron von Marhof. Besides, he's your uncle."

"No, no! I don't want him to be my uncle! I don't need any uncle!"

He glanced about with an anxiety that made her laugh.

"I understand perfectly! My father told me that the events of April in these hills were not to be mentioned.
But don't worry. The sheep won't tell and I won't."

He was silent for a moment as he thought out the words of what he wished to say to her. The sun was dipping down into the hills; the mellow air was still; the voice of a negro singing as he crossed a distant field stole sweetly upon them.

"Shirley!" He touched her hand.
"Shirley?" And his fingers closed upon hers.

"I love you, Shirley! From those days when I saw you in Paris before the great Gettysburg battle picture I loved you. You had felt the cry of the old world, the story that is in its battlefields, its beauty and romance, just as I had felt the call of this new and more wonderful world. I understood—I knew what was in your heart. I knew what those things meant to you, but I had put them aside. I had chosen another life for myself. And the poor life that you saved, that is yours if you will take it. I have told your father and Baron von Marhof that I would not take the fortune my father left me. I would not go back there to be thought of as getting a ribbon to wear in my coat. But my name, the name I bore as a boy and disgraced in my father's eyes—his name that he made famous throughout the world, the name
I cast aside with my youth, the name

I lunged away in anger—they wish me to take that."

She withdrew her hand and rose and looked away toward the western hills.

"The greatest romance in the world is here, Shirley. I have dreamed it all over—in the Canadian woods, on the Montana ranch as I watched the herd at night. My father spent his life keeping a king upon his throne, but I believe there are higher things and finer things than steadying a shaking throne or being a king. And the name that has meant nothing to me except doubt and power—it can serve no purpose for me to take it now. I learned much from the poor archduke. He taught me to hate the sham and shame of the life he had fled from. My father was the last great defender of the divine right of kings, but I believe in the divine right of men. And the dome of the capitol in Washington does not mean to me force or hatred or power, but faith and hope and man's right to live and do and be whatever he can make himself. I will not go back or take the old name unless—unless you tell me I must, Shirley!"

There was an instant in which they both faced the western sun. He looked down suddenly, and the deep feeling in his heart went to his lips.

"It was that way. You were just like that when I saw you first, Shirley,
with the dreams in your eyes."

He caught her hand and kissed it, bending very low indeed. Suddenly, as he stood erect, her arms were about his neck and her cheek, with its warmth and color, lay against his face.

"I do not know," and he scarcely heard the whispered words—"I do not know Frederick Augustus von Stroelbe, but I love John Armistage," she said.

Then back across the meadow, through the rose aisled ways of the quiet garden, they went hand in hand together and answered the baron's question.

WATTERSON SPEAKS
MIND ABOUT BRYAN

(Henry Watterson Courier-Journal
September 22, 1897.)

No party that depends for its existence upon the moods and teneses of human emotion and looks only to win victories when the people are afflicted, can live or ought to live. The fusion party got up by the architects of ruin who build the Bryan movement of last year was that sort of a party. The party which these same men seek to rear on the ruins of Democracy is that sort of a party. For it to exist and prosper there must be a popular discontent and public disorder. Its only principle is the poor against the rich. Its only argument, an appeal to ignorance and passion.
Its only hope, hard times. If it lasts, it must go into Populism; for it is in no sense Democracy. Scratch any one of its leaders and you shall find,
not a Democrat, but a Populist.

But, to come back to the concrete of the situation here in Kentucky,
the case stands thus: Denied all participation in the councils of the junta of extremists who are responsible for the loss of the state in 1895 and of the nation in 1896, the friends of a Democracy, unfettered and undeluded, still broad enough to embrace every state in the union, and every true Democrat in each of the states, met in state convention, and adopted the true, the old, historic Democratic faith as its platform, and nominated a candidate for clerk of the court of appeals.

They did this, first, because they have never been disfranchised, and though outlawed by the Frankfort convention, have still their right of representation. They did it, second, that, having nothing to conceal or be ashamed of, they might stand up and be counted in the face of all men.

They did it, first and last, that they might make a raft for Democrats to go to shore on, when the rotten bulk of Bryanism goes to the bottom; that this rotten bulk should carry to the bottom with it only Populists, Republicans and riffraff, not Democrats.

That it should drag down beneath

INTERESTING FACTS.

W. B. McPherson Offers to Cure
Catarrh—The Medicine Costs
Nothing if It Fails.

When a medicine effects a cure in 98 per cent of cases, and when we offer that medicine on our own personal guarantee that it will cost the user
nothing if it does not cure Catarrh, it is only reasonable that people should believe us, or at least put our claim to a practical test when we take all the risk. These are facts which we want the people of Paducah to substantiate. We want them to try Rexall Muc-Tone, a medicine prepared from a prescription of a physician whose specialty was Catarrh, and who has a record of thirty years
of cures to his credit.

We sell more bottles and receive more good reports about Rexall Muc-Tone than we do of all other catarrh remedies sold in our store, and if more people only knew what a thoroughly dependable remedy Rexall Muc-Tone is, it would be the only catarrh medicine we would have any demand for.

Rexall Muc-Tone is quickly absorbed and carried by the blood until it thoroughly disinfects and cleanses the entire mucous membranous tract, destroys and removes the parasites which injure and destroy the membranous tissues, soothes and heals the irritation and soreness, stops the mucous discharge, and builds up strong, healthy tissue, relieves the blood and system of diseased matter, stimulates the mucous cells, aids digestion and improves nutrition until the whole body vibrates with healthy activity. In a comparatively short time there is a most noticeable gain in weight, strength, good color and feeling of buoyancy.

the waves of ignorance and folly,
which have alone sustained it, only the red flag of repudiation and anarchy, not the glorious ensign of Democracy, and that the Reign of Folly being ended, there might be some nucleus for conservative men to gather round with the purpose of reorganizing and reilluminating the Democratic party on the line of eternal truth made applicable to existing conditions, precisely as it was reorganized and reilluminated at the close of the war of secession.

That reorganization was inaugurated here in Kentucky. Here it won its first victories. Kentucky was then a leader. Kentucky must still be a leader. We must lead, not follow; least of all, in the wake of Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado. As well might the Democrats of Kentucky thirty years ago have reaffirmed the declarations of the Charleston convention of 1860 as for them under present exigencies to reaffirm the declarations of the last Chicago convention. There is a time for all things; and this is a time for an intelligent and manly acceptance of facts, for the renunciation of misleading errors, for the correction of mistakes, and for sincere, courageous, self-abnegation on the part of would-be party leaders.

A vote for Mr. Shackelford is a vote to outlaw as good and true Democrats as ever drew the breath of life and to commit the Kentucky Democracy to all the vagaries of Populism and all the excesses of the reckless men, who, finding themselves for the first time in the saddle, are riding the faithful steed to death. A vote for Mr. Hindman is a vote to restore the party to its better self to outlaw nobody, to open the doors to all,
and to place Kentucky in the lead of the Democratic column, which,
turning its back upon past dissensions and errors, sets its face toward a future full of promise to the party and hope for the country. Can it be that any intelligent, disinterested Democrat who loves his country and his party, is so misled by the spurious label of "regularity" attached to the cracked jar of Populism, as to daily with the courage of his convictions and to doubt his real duty?

As a Democrat, we appeal to Democrats to come out from the body of death which envelops them in the camp of Bryanism and so march with us upon the broad open highway of Democracy. As a Democrat we appeal to Democrats once again to summon to mind and heart the courage of conviction and stand as of old a wall of conservative Democracy against the follies and passions of those extreme and unsound men, who wear the mask of Democracy only the better to serve the purpose of fanaticism and self.

We have no gibbets to build, no guillotines to ply; but in place of these we would erect in the midst of the temple of Democracy an altar where all Democrats may worship in peace and love. We appeal to the reason of our fellow-Democrats, and
—at a time when there is nothing at stake to place any man beyond the reach of reason—we ask them to step and reflect upon the real aspects of the situation and the true meaning of the issue; we entreat them not to listen to the harangues of those whose whole stock-in-trade is the extol-ing of themselves at the expense of all others. There is yet a magic in the name of Democracy. There is yet a saving grace in the spirit of Democracy. Let us not abandon the spirit and the grace to follow after the

should be well considered before a decision is made.

"The Democratic party has always been wrong and will continue to be wrong until it changes its leaders and its theories."

The senator then made a direct appeal to the farmers present, giving market quotations on farm products and live stock during the past two decades. It was a startling contrast he presented to them between the prices realized during Cleveland's administration and during those of McKinley and Roosevelt.

During the Roosevelt regime the statistics showed a tremendous depreciation in the value of all farm products, while during the McKinley and Roosevelt administrations they took a steady and rapid advance, until they showed that the American farmer is more prosperous and getting better prices for everything he raises than at any other time in the history of the country.

Cold Business Matter.

"Can you afford to risk a change? Remember it's a business proposition," were frequently injected into the speaker's arguments.

Then he likened Bryan to a reckless engineer, with the throttle of his locomotive wide open, and Taft as the level-headed, sane engine-driver, who kept his hand on the throttle and stayed down at bridges and grade crossings. Senator Bradley also declared that Bryan's entire career showed a ruthless trampling under foot of the will of the people, which extended even to the Denver convention, which gave him his last nomination.

He told again of Bryan's visit to Frankfort in the winter of 1906, when he urged the overthrow of the will of the people and the counting out of Gov. W. S. Taylor. Bryan's meddling in Kentucky affairs has always been fraught with disaster to his party, and the election of last fall, said the speaker, and Senator Bradley's own election, were striking instances of it.

The senator declared that Bryan's distress over campaign contributions was a joke.

"What did he do with the $288,000 the silver barons contributed to his 1896 campaign?" he asked.

Humor of Bryanism.

References to Mr. Bryan as the Roosevelt heir apparent and "The Peerless One" were accompanied by a number of appropriate anecdotes which brought laughter from the senator's audience. Never were the vagaries and "brainstorms" of the Democratic nominee held up to keener ridicule.

The senator, in closing his address, made a particular appeal to the negro voters, and told them he felt sure they would not sanction the principles or candidates of a party which had not even remotely referred to them in its platform.

There is no apprehension here as to the negro vote. It is as steady as the spring which flows on the Abraham Lincoln farm not many miles from this city.

Mayor Smith's Dinner Party.

Mayor James P. Smith was the host at a beautifully appointed dinner last evening from 8:30 to 11 o'clock at his country home, "Bide-a-Wee," given in honor of United States Senator-elect Bradley, of Louisville, who was in the city the guest of Mr. Frank M. Fisher.

The dinner was an elaborate 8-course affair most attractively served. The centerpiece was a beautiful arrangement of the gorgeous Japanese chrysanthemums in white, and the white and green motif was carried out most artistically.

The dinner was planned for a stag affair, but Senator Bradley being ill and unable to attend and Mr. Fisher, also, not being present, their places were graciously filled by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Boyd.

The guests included: Mayor and Mrs. Smith, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Boyd, Major J. H. Ashcraft, Messrs. Will Farley, L. V. Armentrout, E. E. Bell, Alex Kirkland, John J. Dorian, W. T. Miller, E. J. Paxton.

Perryman, and a talented young woman. Mr. Bundesman is a popular machinist at the Illinois Central shops, and the announcement of the marriage was a pleasant surprise for his fellow workmen. They are residing at 904 Brunson avenue.

Linen Shower Amid Flowers for Bride-Elect.

Miss Ethel Brooks' Linen Shower complimentary to Miss Frances Wallace, a bride of the week, this afternoon at her home, 317 North Seventh street, is a charmingly planned affair.

The spacious house is arranged to represent a flower garden and the idea is prettily emphasized in all the in-door decorations.

The guest of honor was seated in an artistic bower of flowers. Here the dainty gifts of linen were brought to her laden on three small wheelbarrows and presented by little Blaise Eunice Yorls, Susan Porter Sleeth and Lena Utterback. The white and red motif was beautifully carried out in the floral decorations of the wheelbarrows and the costumes of the charming children.

In the dining room the flower idea and the white and red scheme was further elaborated in the attractively appointed table. The lilies were served in miniature flower pots of red and white carnations. The individual wedding cakes were laid in the monogram W and L. Miss Blanche Hills, Miss Lillie May Winstead and Miss Belle Cave received in the dining room. Mrs. Henry Rudy presided at the punch bowl assisted by Miss Lillian Gregory and Miss Kathleen Whitefield.

The guest list numbered 48 of Miss Wallace's friends. During the afternoon Miss Anna Webb read "In Love's Garden," and Miss Mary Scott played some musical numbers.

Mattioli, the teacher of several other musicians of Paducah, including Emory Hobson. Mrs. Blanche Buckner Flournoy and the late Rhey Stanley. The college

RATIONAL CURE FOR ECZEMA.

No More Dosing the Stomach—Cure the Skin Through the Skin.

When you have a scratch on your hand you wash it out and cleanse it and then the skin cures itself. You do not take blood medicine to cure a feasted wound.

The best skin specialists today are agreed that the only way to cure the skin is through the skin.

The fact that eczema is a skin disease and not a blood disease is evident from statistics which show that nearly all eczema sufferers are perfectly healthy in all other ways except as to their skin. If the eczema patients were really suffering from an inward malady, the entire body and not only the skin would be diseased.

You can prove immediately the reality of a true skin cure by using only D. D. Prescription.

This liquid attacks the disease germs, numbing them while building up the healthy tissue of the skin. We have now handled this meritorious and thoroughly scientific remedy for so long and have seen its reliable result so many times that we freely express our confidence.—R. W. Walker Co.

professors are very favorably impressed with Miss Soule's talent and ambition and are confident of excellent musical possibilities, and her host of friends here will be interested in her fine record as a student as well as her musical ability.

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as a savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating a lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with overwork. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or irregular appetite, costiveness, flatulence, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, nervous, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressing feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, "rising" or "rising" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to it as you until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret medicine of known composition.

ULLMAN OPENING GRAND SUCCESS

Come again tonight.

Ullman's opening today was a magnificent success from every standpoint; it was voted that by every one who attended. Never was a patient, untiring effort more generously rewarded, for in selecting, having made up and getting deliveries on such vast quantities of rare finery, Mr. Ullman overcame almost insuperable obstacles.

In every nook and corner of the big store the master hand of the artist is in evidence—in the gowns themselves, in the striking novel scheme of decoration, the beautiful coverlets, the music and every other detail which Mr. Ullman supplied for the pleasure and convenience of his guests. And that his efforts were liberally appreciated was evidenced by the well-pleased, tastefully-gowned throng which came and went all day long, inspecting the splendid merchandise and commenting on its beauty and—let us whisper it—reasonable price.

The gowns and suits were so exquisitely made and faultlessly designed that it almost took one's breath to see some of the prettiest of them marked $35, $40 and just a tiny bit more.

Tonight's program will be another triumph of artistry and another record-breaking attendance is confidently expected.

ARRESTED FOR SPEEDING AUTOMOBILE.

For speeding an automobile down Broadway and Kentucky avenue at about a 35 mile clip, Fred Murton was arrested today by Patrolman Elmus Carter. Patrolman Carter swore out a warrant, and it is understood that Murton will plead guilty. Murton was trying out the machine.

Initiate Candidate Into Mysteries of the Order and Partake of Barbecue.

Odd Fellows from Paducah to the number of 23, composed a party who visited the lodge at Massac, about 12 miles from the city, Saturday night. The trip was made in a four-horse gospel wagon, the crowd leaving at 5:30 o'clock and returning at 4 a. m. Sunday.

The members of Massac lodge had provided a most cordial reception for the visitors and allowed them to initiate a candidate into the mysteries of the order. The work was done by the Paducah degree team and elicited the approval of all who were present.

After the initiation a recess was declared and all partook of the substantial barbecue which had been prepared as only the rural residents of that section know how to do it.

Lodge was again called to order and the meeting was converted into a genuine fraternal love feast. Speeches were made by visitors and members; stories were told, experiences related and cigars smoked. The time passed quickly and it was nearly 2 o'clock in the morning when the members of Massac lodge returned a vote of thanks to the Paducah delegation for their attendance and services, and the meeting closed.

Those composing the party were: S. D. Whitmer, Jacob Soamon, J. O. Keebler, Carroll Jones, W. H. Poore, James Householder, E. T. McKinney.

Gus Singleton, W. H. Patterson, C. E. Renfro, A. E. Stein, Ben Thomas, Herbert Householder, Emmet Holt, A. J. York, Ed Alexander, Gardner Gilbert, Avrett Davis, Claude Patterson, Joe Voght, W. H. Force, Ed Hill and A. D. Kirk.

Keep thoroughly posted during the campaign by reading the Chicago Record-Herald or Tribune. Delivered daily and Sunday, eighteen cents per week. Drop a card to 116 South Fifth street. Will also deliver the Post-Dispatch, Louisville Times, Chicago News and Cincinnati Enquirer.

News of Theatres

Time is Money.

While journeying on the continent, Al H. Wilson, the ambassador of German dialect, happened to come in contact with an old German who made his living selling souvenirs to the tourists. The old fellow was the possessor of a magnificent wolfhound. Wilson wanted a dog of this breed for his new play, "When Old New York Was Dutch," and offered to buy him from the old man. "Vat you gif for Metz?" Without waiting for a reply, he continued, "One gentleman alretty say he gif me von hundred dollars."

the character played by Mr. Wilson in his new play, he became more impressed with the idea of purchasing the dog. "I'll give you one hundred and twenty-five dollars for the animal."

The German eyed Wilson keenly. "Yon vas from Amerika, yaw?" Wilson nodded. "Und you vill take Metz across de ocean?"

"If you decide to let me have him, How about it. Speak quick, time is money."

"Yaw, dot ish so." The German stroked the dog's back, numbingly. "Amerika is a long vay off. I couldn't bart mit you for der world."

At this juncture the party who offered to buy the dog in the first place, snatched towards the group.

"Well, sir," said the newcomer, "have you decided to accept my offer?"

"Yaw," replied the German. "Metz is yours."

The stranger paid the money, departed, taking the dog with him.

"Well, of all the blundering idiots I ever met you are the worst," said Wilson.

"Yaw, I dink so mineself."

"You sold that dog for twenty-five dollars less than I offered you."

"Yaw, dat vas so. It would break mine heart to bart mit him forever. I know vere he goes. In a day or two he'll be pack. Time is money. How much you tink I loose vile Metz vas trying to swim pack from Amerika?"

UNION STATION OFFICIALS BUSY LOT

Twenty Passenger Trains Handled Every Day.

Come in as Lively as Three at a Time Twice Each Day in the Year.

WHAT THEY DO EACH DAY.

There are more trains in the Union station every day than the average Paducah would think, as there are twenty trains for which baggage is checked. In the morning from 7:40 to 7:50 o'clock there are three trains in at once and this trick is repeated in the afternoon from 6 o'clock until 6:15 o'clock. The longest wait for passenger trains is five hours and 18 minutes, which comes from 8:10 at night until 1:28 o'clock the next morning.

Beginning at midnight the first train in is passenger train No. 104, which arrives at 1:28 from Memphis, and five minutes later leaves for Louisville. The second train in, No. 103 from Louisville at 3:52 o'clock and five minutes later it leaves for Memphis. At 7:40 o'clock business picks up as the accommodation train No. 122 from Fulton arrives and leaves for Fulton fifteen minutes later. The Cairo train arrives at 7:45 o'clock and five minutes later the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis train leaves for Memphis and Nashville. At 7:30 o'clock the Mayfield local train leaves Eleventh street and Broadway, but does not pass the station.

At 11 o'clock the Carbondale train arrives, and at 11:20 train No. 102 arrives from Memphis for Louisville. At 12:40 o'clock the St. Louis train leaves over the Ohio river. At 1:10 o'clock a Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis train arrives from Memphis and Nashville, and at 2:20 o'clock a train over the same railroad leaves with passengers for Memphis and Nashville, by making connections at Hollow Rock.

An hour's rest is given the employees when the Hopkinsville train is made up and leaves at 3:35 o'clock. Before time is had to enjoy a smoke the baggage employees have to receive the baggage from the St. Louis train, which leaves at 3:55 o'clock, and at 4:15 o'clock train No. 121, the accommodation train leaves on the return trip. At 6:10 o'clock the fast passenger train No. 101 arrives from Louisville and five minutes later leaves for Memphis. At 6:05 o'clock the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis local leaves the station at and goes as far as Paris, Tenn. The train that goes to Cairo leaves at 6:15 o'clock for the Egyptian city. This is the busiest time at the station, and the railroad men are kept on their toes. More passengers leave at this hour than any other.

At 7:45 o'clock a passenger train arrives from Cairo and at 8:10 o'clock the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroad has a passenger train in from Nashville and Memphis. With this the railroad men have an opportunity to figure up the day's business and enjoy a real talk, as during the day the employees are on the jump and have little time to converse with passengers or anyone else. The total of the trains is 21, which is a greater number than the average citizen would believe for Paducah with just two railroads.

of a passenger train to Mayfield about 8 o'clock in the morning, and one that will return about 4 or 5 o'clock in the afternoon. At present the local is the only way to reach Mayfield during the day except by leaving on train No. 103 at 3:57 o'clock in the morning. An opportunity to return to Paducah is given at 11:20 on train No. 102. The local arrives at Paducah at 7 o'clock, but often it takes three hours to make the 25 miles. Should a business man desire to make the trip to Mayfield on the regular passenger trains and miss train No. 102 he cannot return to Paducah until 1:28 in the morning on train No. 194.

SEPT. CLEARINGS SHOW INCREASE

Of Five Per Cent Over Same Month 1907.

Henry Clews Says Evidences of Business Improvement Are Multiplying in Various Directions.

RAILROADS MAKE INCREASES.

New York, Oct. 12.—Evidences of business improvement are multiplying in various directions. This is not only true of the west, where conditions are sound and promising, but also in the east, where the depression has been most severe. Railroad traffic is recovering, and the number of idle cars is steadily diminishing. Earnings of 37 roads reporting the third week of September showed decreases of less than 4 per cent, whereas in July and August the same roads were showing losses of 12 to 17 per cent. September's bank clearings showed an increase of 5 per cent over the same month last year, a fact which is surprising in view of the prevailing quietness of business; and while Stock Exchange activity probably accounted for much of the increase in clearings at New York, the gains reported from many cities in various parts of the country prove beyond question that business is surely though slowly reviving in spite of a political campaign. If other evidences of recovery are desired they can be easily found. Improved conditions in the money market have carried natural and much needed relief in various directions. Bankers, although in a discriminating mood, will now lend with greater freedom on all sound and legitimate enterprises. Real estate is feeling the advantage of this relief; property is changing hands more freely, and better class developments which were blocked by the panic are being carried out with more promise. Now that mortgages can be more readily placed, building operations are being resumed under more favorable auspices, encouraged by the lower prices for building materials and more settled labor conditions. In consequence there has been a better demand for constructive shapes in steel and iron; lumber is more active, and the various metals are stronger. According to the best statistical authorities, the new construction work contracted for in September in the leading cities was 7 per cent greater than a year ago, and in the city of New York alone the increase was 14 per cent; a much more gratifying exhibit than expected. Mills in different parts of the country, which have been shut down either owing to dull business or the drought, are starting up and many that have been running on short time are preparing to run full time. In many instances moderate concessions have been made in wages; and there will follow a widespread improvement in the volume of business.

The first question to be asked is how long will this improvement last in view of the fact that the country will shortly be precipitated into a sharp tariff agitation, both parties being pledged to revision. Tariff changes are always unsettling; the uncertainty as to what will be done usually being a more serious matter than the actual changes. Fortunately, the country is in some respects better able to stand tariff discussion than ever before. The tariff in many instances is so high that a moderate reduction would do little or no harm to home interests, and would increase the national revenue. In other cases our manufacturers would be positively benefited by a reduction of the tariff on their raw materials. The most likely point of attack is the steel tariff but there is ample margin here, and our steel industry is so well fortified by superior methods and low costs of production that its future will not be seriously endangered by any well considered reduction. Whether the campaign against corporations will be conducted as aggressively as heretofore, or not, is an open question. Already there has been a decided reaction in public opinion in this respect, and the feeling that the country needs a rest from this sort of agitation is steadily gaining ground. As soon as the presidential election is over, the anti-corporation policy will not be so much in demand as a political issue.

This week the market reflected the uneasiness felt in London and other European centers over the disturbances in the Balkan peninsula. There is little prospect of war at present, because Turkey is in no position to carry on hostilities, and strong European pressure would be used to prevent. Besides several of these states have enjoyed practical autonomy ever since the Berlin treaty; control by Turkey having been merely formal. Perhaps the most significant feature is the necessity for calling a conference of the great powers; a proceeding that will bring about a readjustment of the terms of the Berlin treaty. There is more danger in the rivalry likely to develop at conference between some of the great powers than in war between Turkey and the seceding states; and it must be remembered that the foreign financial markets are always peculiarly sensitive to diplomatic disturbances and that such movements are usually reflected here.

Activity on the Stock Exchange was considerably interrupted by the home politics. In other respects, also, the market is under conflicting influences. Improving business and more definite political conditions are of course favorable to securities. But security prices are still very high, and it is a question whether or not all the favorable features have not been fully discounted. It is generally recognized that recent high prices were largely the result of abnormally cheap money, due to the financial and industrial paralysis succeeding the panic. As business improves there will be a better demand for money; rates will gradually stiffen and approach the normal. It follows, therefore, that if interest rates advance, securities must decline in the long run unless better returns in the form of increased dividends are forthcoming, which just now is not probable. It is quite certain that gauged by money market prospects alone the majority of stocks are quite high enough. Just here, however, another factor interferes. The big insiders are still carrying large surplus lines of stocks which they wish to sell. They will certainly push prices to a higher level at the first favorable opportunity, if they can. So far the public has not been disposed to relieve them of their surplus holdings, and should any one of the leaders decide to let go the consequences would not be pleasant. The big men still have the stocks; they want to unload, but cannot. Will they succeed at a higher or lower level? The next few weeks should determine, and as soon as the political atmosphere clears we may look for a more active market. There is this much in favor of a better market: The west is sound and enjoys a prosperity unknown here, thanks to a good harvest and profitable prices for all agricultural products.
